Although there are multiple species disclosed and claimed in the present application, the Examiner has not given a requirement at this time because the two claimed species are similar in structure. However, the Examiner reserves the right to restrict the claimed invention to one species in the future.

Specification

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

On page 1 of the specification, there is no status and filing data for each of the parent applications.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 35 and 40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a structure where the ratio of expansion struts to connector struts is 2:1, does not reasonably provide enablement for a structure where the ratio of connector struts to expansion struts is 2:1. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make the invention commensurate in scope with these claims. There is no disclosure of any indication that the number of connector struts can be twice the number of expansion struts, yet the claims can be read to encompass such an embodiment. For this reason, the claim scope is beyond what is enabled by the specification as filed.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 36, 38, and 40-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

With regard to claims 36 and 38, the term "loops" in the expansion column is not disclosed as such, and it is not readily apparent what structure of the disclosed invention this language is referring to. Rather, the specification refers to "loops" as part of the connecting struts; see Figure 10A. For this reason, this language appears to lack antecedent basis from the specification and is confusing.

With regard to claim 39, the terminology "curved member" to connect adjacent expansion struts of the first and second expansion columns lacks clear antecedent support from the specification. In particular, the joining struts appear to be straight not curved as disclosed.

With regard to claims 39 and 42, it is not clear what the "geometrical cells" or "cells" of the disclosed invention are because this terminology is not used in the specification.

Claims 40, 41, and 43 are indefinite because they depend from the indefinite claims identified above.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 34-38 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-9 of copending Application No. 10/124,224. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the same embodiments are claimed in both applications such that they read on each other. For this reason, the claim sets are considered obvious in view of each other.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Art Unit: 3738

(e) the invention was described in-

- (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effect under this subsection of a national application published under section 122(b) only if the international application designating the United States was published under Article 21(2)(a) of such treaty in the English language; or
- (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that a patent shall not be deemed filed in the United States for the purposes of this subsection based on the filing of an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a).

Claims 34-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Richter (US 5,807,404) wherein the left end column of struts of Richter is displaced slightly higher with respect to the second-to-left strut column. The connector column has curves; see Figure 11.

Furthermore and with a different interpretation, at least the circumferences of the two connector ends are longitudinally displaced such that the claim language is met for circumferentially and longitudinally displaced ends of the connector struts.

Claims 34-36 and 39-43 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Pinchasik et al (US 5,449,373); see Figures 2A and 2B which can be construed to read on the claimed invention.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicant should specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure, including the claims (MPEP 714.02 and 2163.06). Due to the procedure outlined in MPEP 2163.06 for interpreting claims, it is noted that other art may be applicable under 35 USC 102 of 35 USC 103(a) once the aforementioned issue(s) is/are addressed.

Applicant is respectfully requested to provide a list of all copending applications that set forth similar subject matter to the present claims. A copy of such copending claims is respectfully requested in response to this Office action.
